Our story _

How we started

Talmundo was founded in 2012 out of a growing frustration around HR information systems. Stijn, our CEO, was tired of the tools he tried to implement as an HR executive. More often than not, they made HR processes more complicated. Technology should help, not complicate our jobs.

Expertise

At Talmundo we bring our own professional experience in HR, mix in a solid development team, and add a dose of good design to bring your organization an employee onboarding solution that you will actually want to implement.

Our mission is to help you build an new hire journey that puts experience at its core. A journey that reflects your company's culture and mission and tells your story, while bringing your new hires up to speed as fast and effectively as possible, without all the complications of big HRM solutions.
